Ashley Norton's New Burnished Brass Puts a Modern Spin on an Old-World Classic

With a rich tone and texture, the hand-brushed finish adds depth and unique character to each piece of hand-forged solid brass hardware

Pompton Plains, NJ, December 9, 2021) Ashley Norton offers a fresh take on trending brass finishes. Fusing the sophistication of polished brass with the warm beauty of antique brass, their new Burnished Brass finish represents the best of both worlds. A hand-brushed texture lends an aged appearance while the refined gold tone exudes the sense of luxury designers, architect, and homeowners covet from brass. A more "weathered" version of a classic finish, Burnished Brass blends in beautifully with virtually any space.

and knobs in Burnished Brass

“Burnished Brass is our interpretation of a timeworn brass finish. It’s similar to an unlacquered brass look, but unlike unlacquered brass, it will retain its depth and unique character and won’t patina or darken over time.”

– Ashish Karnani, Vice President of Ashley Norton

“Burnished Brass is our interpretation of a timeworn brass finish,” states Ashish Karnani, Vice President of Ashley Norton. “It’s similar to an unlacquered brass look, but unlike unlacquered brass, it will retain its depth and unique character and won’t patina or darken over time.” Karnani explains.

The new hand-brushed Burnished Brass finish is currently available for all Ashley Norton Solid Brass door hardware. It is expected to be available for Solid Brass cabinet hardware in early 2022. Passage sets in Burnished Brass start at $232.
